SEPTEMBER 18, 2022 | 25TH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

25th Sunday
IN ORDINARY TIME

"If, therefore, you are not trustworthy with dishonest wealth, who will trust you with true wealth?" - Lk 16:11

PARISH MISSION STATEMENT

Devoted to Jesus Christ as disciples, we help others become disciples,
and work to renew our culture.

September 18, 2022, 25th Sunday in Ordinary Time — Formed.org.

Video overview: Today's Gospel passage is one of the more confusing ones for many people. It tells the story of the dishonest steward who writes off part of his master's debts, in essence cheating his master of some of the money that was due him. And yet Jesus commends this dishonest man. What are we to make of this? First of all, this is not a morality parable. Jesus is not telling us that we should become dishonest. Instead, the purpose is to show us that we must think ahead; we must plan for our eternal future, not just for our lives in the here and now. In the story, the rich master stands for God, who has entrusted much to each of us in the way of talents, financial resources, abilities, and more. Like the master, one day he will ask if we have used wisely what we have been given freely. However, unlike the master in the parable, God wants us to give away generously what we have been given generously. He wants us to give away his gifts to free others literally and figuratively. So, in commending the steward, Jesus is telling us that if we are like him, we will be generous with all we have been given. Then, when we stand at the gates of heaven, there will be many friends who will speak up for us, just as those whose debts were forgiven spoke up for the steward. Lying at the heart of this parable are two important questions: How am I stewarding the resources God has given me? What am I doing now with what God has entrusted to me? Our response is vital, for, as Jesus is telling us so clearly, one day we will all be called to render an account.

Featured study: Giving to others

Reflection: This week's Gospel reading sometimes shocks readers with its practicality. Is Jesus counseling us to bribe people with ill-gotten gain? This may be if one doesn't understand the story of the bad steward. However bad a steward he was, there's no evidence that he was stealing or even cheating. We're only told that he was badly handling his master's goods. So Jesus isn't commending bad behavior in this parable. He's suggesting that even a bad manager knows how to get the most out of worldly goods when push comes to shove. So we're being told that, if we want to be found worthy to be children of the Father, heirs of the wealth of the kingdom of God, we must first show ourselves to be good servants of his household. If we're not first good stewards of the Master's goods, he won't give us our inheritance as adopted sons and daughters. If we treat the Master's goods as if they were our own, as did the bad steward, we may never receive a reward. But if we give up our profit for the benefit of the Master and his debtors, he will supply us with an everlasting reward in the kingdom.

MINISTRY OF THE SICK AND HOMEBOUND

Extraordinary Ministers of Holy Communion (EMHCs) who take Communion to the sick and homebound have a role in sharing the Church's total ministry to the sick after the manner of Jesus. In bringing Communion to the sick and homebound the EMHC represents Christ and manifests faith and charity on behalf of the whole community towards those who cannot be present at the Mass. This ministry is a sign of support and concern shown by the community for its members. We are in need of more volunteers to become Eucharistic Ministers for this undertaking. ## 2022 Theme: "This is My Body Given for You." (Luke 22:19)

Those whom the parish community has designated to serve as catechists will be commissioned for their ministry. Catechetical Sunday is a wonderful opportunity to reflect on the role that each person plays, by virtue of Baptism, in handing on the faith and be witness to the Gospel. Catechetical Sunday is an opportunity for all to rededicate themselves to this mission as a community of faith.

Pregnant and scared? Sisters of Life share 8 messages of hope after Roe (Part II)

Speaking for the sisters, she wanted women to know, "We believe in you." "You have plans for your life, and bringing a child into the world may not be part of those plans right now," she said. "However, the mystery of new life within you can be empowering and a great source of motivation to finish school, have a career, and become the woman you were meant to be."

While a pregnant woman might hear conflicting opinions, the sisters suggested, "Listen to your heart." "Everyone around you may have formed an opinion of what you should do," Sr. Marie Veritas said. "Cast aside the negative voices drowning out the truth of your goodness, your dignity as a woman, and your tremendous capacity to love. Let us help you discover what will bring the greatest joy to your heart."

In other words, the sisters say, women should "See beyond your fears to the possibilities." "Fear is a very strong emotion," Sr. Marie Veritas said. "At times, we can be deceived into living out of irrational or unfounded fears. This can be paralyzing and prevent us from taking positive steps toward a solution. It may also cloud our judgment and lead us astray. Important or life-changing decisions are best made in peace and freedom."

She concluded by saying, "Let's talk and find a solution you can live with." "Our broad expanse of resources includes housing, employment, medical assistance, legal advice, and emotional and spiritual accompaniment," she said. "We are here to listen, to answer questions, to explore your options, and to walk with you in finding real possibilities during a difficult time. You deserve a safe space to share your experience and your concerns." Women find out more about the Sisters of Life online and contact them for help. For pregnancy help, women can call 1-877-777-1277 or text 212-203-8716.
